Diabolical Minds Direct Communist Conspiracy WILL U.S. GO THE WAY OF HUNGARY?

Part of a speech delivered by Dr. Revilo Oliver, head of Dept. of Classics, University of Illinois, before Congress of Freedom, Colorado Springs, Colorado.

Ladies and gentlemen, it is an honor to appear before you—an honor that I deeply appreciate. The Congress of Freedom is one of the most widely known and highly respected conservative organizations in the United States. But this very fact has another aspect—an unpleasant aspect that is obvious to all of us and that it would be false courtesy to ignore. Let's face it. We are a small group. Numerically, at least, we are insignificant and lost in the howling wilderness of folly and treason that our country has become. The only thing that stands between us and despair right now is the knowledge that there are now active in the United States many other conservative groups who share our alarm and are working for the same general purpose with the same hope that it is not yet too late to save America for the American people. And outside all these organizations there is a large and ever growing number of Americans who sense that something is seriously wrong, who are made uneasy or even afraid by a menace that they feel in the atmosphere about them but that they have not yet clearly identified, and who do not know what they can or should do.

The common problem of all conservatives is that of finding a way to exert the maximum force in the minimum of time that we have left. I want to suggest to you the strategy that seems to me our best, and perhaps our only hope.

LORD HELP US SEE

Let me remind you that there are thousands, perhaps millions, of people in this country, including a considerable portion of our conservatives, who are still slapping their foreheads and wishing that they could be sure about the Communist conspiracy, how big it is, who belongs to it, and even what it proposes to do. I suggest to you that the only thing that we as conservatives can do is put forth in unison all the effort of which we as individuals are capable to rouse those people from their confused befuddlement and convince them that things now are as bad as they seem. And let me assure you with all the earnestness of my heart that I feel certain that unless we do this now, four years hence you and I—every one of us in this room—will either be dead or wish to God that we were.

If I were not firmly convinced of this, I would not take the very grave risk of personal and professional ruin that I now take by speaking against the Communist conspiracy.

Most Americans, who read only the communist-dominated press and watch television and other entertainment of which the communists have virtually complete control, are not only woefully uninformed about the nature and extent of this international criminal conspiracy, but have had their minds so systematically conditioned and poisoned from the day on which they entered a primary school that they have great difficulty in understanding even the nature of the problem. The enormous task before us is that of undoing within the next two or three years all that the communists have accomplished by their incredibly patient laborious, and cunning efforts since that black day in 1872 when the headquarters of their international conspiracy were openly and officially transferred to New York City.

GODLESS GANGSTERS

I shall not take your time, ladies and gentlemen, by outlining again what is known of the dark history of the world's greatest criminal organization, and of its unremitting work and constant growth in the United States since 1872. Let me only remind you that for many years, at least, the world capital of this international conspiracy was located in our country, and that, as everyone now knows, the Bolshevik butchery in Russia was organized in the United States, financed from the United States, and carried out by a gang of 1700 disciplined assassins, most of whom came from New York City.

The present status of the Communist conspiracy in the United States is equally a matter of public knowledge. On 3 March 1958 Congressman Francis E. Walter, Chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, published a report stating that "the Kremlin has succeeded in enlisting, at a conservative estimate, more than a million Americans There are at this moment the equivalent of some 20 combat divisions of enemy troops on American soil troops that are loyal to the Soviet." In other words, ladies and gentlemen, you are now living in a country that has been partly occupied. Unless the American people now make a desperate effort to save themselves, they will, within four years, I think, find themselves in the position of the Hungarians when they made their frantic and hopeless effort to regain their freedom three years ago.

There are two basic facts that one must bear in mind when one tries to understand communists. If they seem obvious to you, forgive me for repeating them here, but they are so fundamental that I must insist upon them.

First, all the talk about an "ideological struggle" is mostly nonsense. No communist, except gullible college boys and other children, really believe in the doctrine of socialism. Marx's absurd theories are merely a propaganda device, a means to an end. The intellectual processes of the communist mind have been well explained by Czeslaw Milosz in his Captive Mind, and by Gerhart Niemeyer in his Inquiry into Soviet Mentality, but they were best epitomized by Duane Thorin. This young American, who had somehow escaped brain-washing in his high school and college, was taken prisoner in Korea and interrogated for months by the Chinese Communist who sought to convert him. He received some attention from a really important communist official, and his native shrewdness enabled him only contempt for their inferiors who really believed the Marxist propaganda. As Thorin neatly puts it "Intellects that failed to see through the falsities of communism were so arrested that they were of only limited use in the totalitarian state."

MOST DANGEROUS OF ALL BEASTS

It is quite incorrect, therefore to say of a communist, unless you mean that he is a juvenile or a fool, that he believes in communism. Communism is not a theory in which men may believe; it is a conspiracy in which men participate. So far as communism has an intellectual basis, that basis may be found in the doctrine, not of Karl Marx, but of John Dewey. The communist is the perfect Pragmatist; he is a Nihilist; he believes that there is no such thing as truth. He repudiates and hates all the traditions, and culture of the Past; there is no truth, there is no value in the world but the satisfaction of his own whims and appetites, whatsoever they may be. Intellectually speaking, he is a beast, perhaps the lowest and most dangerous of all beasts.

I had my first glimpse of this passion early in my days in Washington. I met a young man who had just come into the army. He looked like an amiable college boy, and as a matter of fact, he had been graduated from law school only two or three years before. He had been working for the Labor Relations Board, and he enthusiastically described to me the way in which he and his colleagues would raid small American corporations that were inclined to be recalcitrant, seize their books and cart them off, ostensibly for the purpose of photographing them, but actually to force the company, paralyzed by the loss of its records, to submit. I was a little shocked and I asked, "Lieutenant, didn't it seem to you that you were violating the constitutional rights of American business men?" He was a young man, and he answered promptly, "Rights? Why, they're capitalists. When we stand them up against a wall, we will shoot them in the belly: they die longer that way."

THEY WILL BURY US

That was how I first came to suspect the basic orientation of communist minds, but only after years of observation, and with help from the illuminating analysis by Denis de Rougemont, did I realize that the young man was exceptional only in the readiness with which he let slip the mask. That is the explanation of the fact that puzzles so many Americans who have not closely observed communists, the seemingly strange fact that the so-called "liberal intellectuals" are not perturbed or shaken in their faith by the innumerable and indubitable reports of communist atrocities, tortures, and massacres. We all know that when the Bolshevik vermin from New York took over Russia, they proceeded systematically to murder some 5,000,000 men, women, and children, including the best part of the population. We all know, for example, that when the White Russians in Odessa agreed to an armistice under most solemn pledges that they and their families were to be transported unharmed to Constantinople, the communists massacred part of the men as soon as they were disarmed, and reserved another part for tortures so scientifically administered that many of the victims took more than a week to die. The women were compelled to witness this amusement and then placed in brothels for sadistic sexual tortures; some lived as long as three months. This procedure has continued ever since. You have seen photographs of mutilated men and women, living and dead—photographs that made you physically sick at a single glance. You must have noticed that such things do not daunt even the most delicate and effeminate of our "liberal intellectuals." And the only explanation I think is the terrible one that I have suggested. Very many men do not adhere to communism in spite of its indescribable atrocities; on the contrary, they become communists because of those atrocities. The true hardcore communist, whatever the disguise he may wear when he moves among you and however much he may think it expedient to snivel about "social good" or "brotherhood," is, in the literal and exact meaning of the English word, a thug, that is, a man who has made a religion of murder. He is given by an overwhelming lust to destroy and uproot, to annihilate civilization, to kill—and even more than that, to make decent men and women suffer, to degrade them to the level of animals. That is his ideal, and for it he works constantly, tirelessly, and with infinite cunning.

INVISIBLE GOVT. REAL DANGER

The Communist conspiracy has a basically dual organization. From 1876 to 1907, it is true, the conspiracy was entirely secret and underground, but since 1907 there has been a public segment, 1st. called the I.W.W. and reorganized in 1919 as the official Communist Party, headed in both instances by a criminal named William Z. Foster, the close associate and protégé of Felix Frankfurter. This official party has never been large. It probably has never had over 90,000 card-carrying members at any time. It has served on the one hand as a recruiting and testing agency to enlist talented conspirators who, after they have proven their worth and ability, could quietly be transferred to one or another division of the underground, and it has served on the other hand as a shield to mask and facilitate the work of the part of the underground apparatus that consists of conspirators who pose as "liberal intellectuals," and who urge the American people to save themselves from communism at home by reforming their legal and economic system along communist lines, and to save the world from communism by taxing themselves to finance communist governments abroad. The official party, which currently pretends to be even smaller than it is, has never been more than a small segment of the conspiracy. Louis Budenz recounts with wry humor that when he had worked his way up in the Communist Party to become managing editor of the Daily Worker and a member of the National Executive Council, he began to fancy himself a person of some importance, until one of his superiors remarked dryly, "Son, all that you have seen is the periscope of the submarine."

The communist underground is our real danger, and no one can accurately measure its total strength. Its members all vociferously deny that they are communists, and they are now, so organized that when everything is working properly no one conspirator can positively identify more than five of his accomplices. Two members of the F.B.I. and an ex-communist agree in assuring me that since the 1930's, at any rate, it has been the fixed policy of the communists to find a young man and young woman, arrange for their marriage, help them through college, if necessary, and then send them into an American community, often a small town. For fifteen years the Party provides them with such support as they may need to establish themselves firmly in the professional or even the business life of the community. During these fifteen years they are to keep themselves clear of all suspicion; the party asks them no single overt act, not even a signature on a communist-front petition. After fifteen years, they begin to receive orders—and carry them out.

The underground works under innumerable guises on innumerable projects, many of which seem irrelevant to their purpose. Mr. William Rusher, who was for some years a member of the legal staff of the Senate Internal Security Committee, estimates that there are now 10,000 separate organizations, each directed toward a single goal, and many of them apparently innocent. All of these fronts have one thing in common: they simulate a charitable or altruistic interest in human welfare, and pretend that they are working for some "social good." These fronts serve primarily as a means of establishing and maintaining control over a mass of dupes—well meaning and sometimes intelligent people who never even guess who is doing their thinking for them. They unwittingly form the third and largest circle of communist strength.

IRRESISTIBLE PRESSURE

The international conspiracy has penetrated every segment of American life, and has attained effective control of many of the most strategic. That is obvious from the information scattered in many sources, including the confessions of repentant communists and the many reports issued by the Congressional committees. But let me remind you that all the investigations by the House and Senate committees have been fragmentary and have involved only minor members of the conspiracy. Even the late Senator McCarthy operated for the most part on the periphery of the conspiracy, and you will remember that when he opened a line of investigation which was evidently leading to a nest of traitors in the Pentagon, the forces of international communism, utilizing their control of the press, the radio, and television, struck down that great American patriot on what was perhaps the darkest day in American history since Valley Forge. There has been no searching investigation of communism in the United States. You will, perhaps, remember that Judge Robert Morris, who was Chief Counsel of the Internal Security Subcommittee of the Senate, stated in a radio broadcast last year that no congressional investigation of communism had ever gone very far in penetrating the structure of the conspiracy because whenever the committee seemed likely to follow the trail of major conspirators, its work was stopped by "irresistible pressures." And even Judge Morris did not dare to specify the nature or source of these pressures.

The communist web of subversion now clearly extends from the humblest primary school to the highest court in our land. In many areas, of course, the communist work is done for them by puppets and stooges who do not realize that they are being manipulated, or by frauds, racketeers, and other social parasites, such as typical bureaucrats, whose minds can focus on just one thing: the fast and easy buck. But conspiracies, like armies, must first be measured by the number of troops they can put into the field, not by the number who know and approve the strategic plans of the High Command.

PROGRESSIVE EDUCATION

In the public schools, for instance, the techniques of what is called "progressive education," designed to stultify the minds and brutalize the character of adolescents, are essentially an elaborate fraud perpetrated by a gang of parasites who exploit the gullibility of taxpayers. But the incultation of illiteracy and the incitation of sexual promiscuity serve the communist purpose of degrading mankind, and have been largely accomplished under communist direction. They are now reaping what they so diligently sowed. Last year one of my younger colleagues in the University thought to ask his class of freshmen—twenty boys and girls, probably from twenty different high schools all over the state—about communism, and 90% of them—eighteen little parrots replied: "Everyone knows that communism is the ideal form of government. We learned all about that in high school."

In the universities the communists have zealously promoted, and in turn profited by, the relaxation and now even the repudiation of the old standards of scholarship and intellectual integrity. The colleges and universities, indeed, were probably the first great communist target. No one, so far as I know, has examined the recorded membership and activities of the Socialist Clubs which, under the leadership of John Dewey, were established in 1905-1910 in colleges and universities throughout the country. I cannot say, therefore, whether or not these clubs were a communist-front activity. The first communist cell of which I have heard is said to have been organized at Harvard in 1910.

One must take it for granted that every college and university of prominence has strong communist cells in its faculty. Dr. J. B. Matthews, who has virtually devoted his life to the study of this conspiracy, estimates that the communists control, as members or as committed allies, more than three thousand teachers in colleges and universities. Louis Budenz, on the basis of information he acquired while he was a member of the party, estimates that there are 3500 members. Another ex-communist informs me that there were cells of which Budenz evidently had no knowledge.

LIBERAL INTELLECTUALS

But if you wish to see how far the poison has gone, you must go beyond these figures to the now open repudiation of the basic conception of scholarship by the freebooters who insist that they are just sweet "liberal intellectuals." In the recent book, The Academic Mind, by Paul F. Lazarsfeld and Wagner Thielens, you will discover that back in the horse-and-buggy days it was the function of scholarship to preserve the cultural and scientific tradition, but that in the modern world the proper function of the university professor is (I quote) "to undermine . . . custom and social authority." Now that, of course, is not a specific recommendation to join the communist conspiracy, but lest some "intellectuals" might not be bright enough to get the point, the authors elsewhere in their book "prove" by sociological gobbledegook that the "scholarly prestige" of a university is directly proportional to the percentage of its faculty that welcomes communist colleagues and is eager to see communist cells set up in the student body.

In fairness to the academic world, however, one must remark that American churches have proved themselves no more resistant to penetration by the conspirators. In fact, Herbert Philbrick, the agent of the F.B.I. who spent nine years in the communist underground, believes that the conspirators have won more support among American ministers than in any other profession.

It is not my purpose to review one by one the segments of American society in which evidence of communist penetration has been published and should be known to every one. Instead I should like to indicate summarily a few areas in which, so far as I know, an investigation has not been made, but in which inquiry is urgently needed. In these areas, of course, I can suggest no conclusions—only terrifying possibilities.

You may remember that in the 1920's two bank robbers and murderers, named Sacco and Vanzetti, were arrested and finally executed for a crime of which their guilt was indubitable. But these men, like Stalin in his youth, were both bank robbers and communist agents, and accordingly a long and frenzied agitation, led by such exalted figures as professor Felix Frankfurter, of Harvard University, was begun to procure their release. And I note also that in the new communist state recently set up in Cuba, one of the official executioners is according to Robert Siegrist, a man from Milwaukee, Wisconsin, named Hermann Marks, who has a long police record of 32 arrests and was only recently released from the penitentiary to which he had been sentenced after being convicted of rape. I suppose the answer is that ordinary criminals with sadistic tendencies are naturally attracted to communism, but an investigation might disclose some interesting details.

CHARITY BEGINS AT HOME

I suggest to you, that we need urgently to ascertain the communist use of organized charities. We all know, of course, that public welfare agencies are as natural a habitat for communists as sage brush for rattlesnakes. Herbert Philbrick estimates that one-third of the top echelon of communist conspirators is lodged in just one federal agency, the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, and observers in Washington estimate that between seventy and eighty per-cent of the responsible officers in that agency are members of the conspiracy—that, by the way, is a datum which will help you to understand why the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare was granted the largest increase of any governmental department in the President's so-called "economy budget" this year. But I am thinking now of private charity, of the agencies that solicit money from you every year.

The communists have a strange sense of humor, you know, which makes them take pleasure in bamboozling the public. You may remember that the first and unsuccessful communist revolution in China in the 1920's was partly financed by funds collected in this country for the "starving Chinese." You remember that the Marxist dominated broadcasting stations called Radio Free Europe, exposed last year by Fulton Lewis, Jr., is partly supported by funds collected from American suckers for the ostensible purpose of fighting communism. You may have seen the American Legion's report on the weird organization called UNICEF, which revealed that three-quarters of the money collected by the children who each year beg from door to door was either sent to admittedly communist countries, such as Red China, or completely unaccounted for.

MENTAL HEALTH RACKET

We have also noticed the frenzied agitation on what is euphemistically called "mental health" throughout the nation. We all know that the agitation was begun by the World Health Organization, whose president was that ubiquitous traitor, Alger Hiss, and sponsored in this country by the National Association for Mental Health, whose director, Julius Schrieber, refused to tell a Congressional committee whether or not he was a communist on the grounds that his answer might incriminate him. We know that the agitation is financed by funds taken from the pockets of the taxpayers by that great communist department of our government, the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. And it is becoming increasingly clear that the only purpose of "mental health" is to provide quasilegal means of kidnapping and torturing Americans who oppose the communist conspiracy. But from this observation we must draw the terrifying but logical conclusion that the conspiracy now has control of so large a number of psychiatrists and similar "experts" that if the American people can be cajoled and bullied into sticking their heads into the legal noose, the plan can be put into operation without effective opposition from other psychiatrists. Mr. Kenneth Goff, who was trained in "psychopolitics" while he was in the Communist Party, in his booklet, Brain Washing, reports that Beria, then Chief Murderer in the Soviet State, in 1936 told the American communists:

"With the institutions for the insane you have in your country prisons which can hold a million persons and hold them without civil rights of any hope of freedom. And upon these people can be practiced shock and surgery so that never again will they draw a sane breath. Therefore you must dominate as respected men the fields of psychiatry and psychology."

The ghastly question that we must ask ourselves is: How far have the conspirators advanced toward this goal in the past quarter of a century? It is imperative that the American people, including every man sincerely interested in the study of the human mind, have an answer to that question.

COURTS OF INJUSTICE

Equally vital is the question of our federal courts. Mr. Felix Frankfurter is probably the most brilliant and dangerous immigrant ever imported into this country. He was early the close associate and protector of William Z. Foster, the criminal who was titular head of the open segment of the communist conspiracy. Frankfurter began his public career by worming his way into the position of secretary to the Secretary of War in the cabinet of President William Howard Taft. In 1918, after he had been publicly denounced by former President Theodore Roosevelt as the soul-mate of Lenin and Trotsky, he retired to a professorship in Harvard University, where he settled down to train two generations of traitors whom he managed to slip into Washington and into law schools throughout the country. His most famous pupil, Alger Hiss, you will remember, began his career in Washington as secretary to Justice Holmes of the Supreme Court during a Republican and essentially conservative administration. On 29 May 1950 the Chicago Tribune's veteran correspondent in Washington reported that a man "with the highest connections in the State Department" declared that Frankfurter was "the most powerful man in the United States" and the head of a "secret government" that really controlled this country.

Frankfurter is recognized as the dominant mind in the Supreme Court that has con-

WE NEED YOUR HELP

We have had an extremely difficult Summer and many serious problems. It is difficult to run a growing paper as large as COMMON SENSE without advertising. To the many people who have written us, we thank you for your concern and, God willing, and with your support, we intend to put out an even more effective paper in the future.

We are faced with several serious problems as we come into the Fall. We cannot afford to send each subscriber a personal letter, but we are going to ask you to accept this as a personal appeal to help us in whatever way you can—by getting new subscribers, by ordering books and literature, by distributing papers and thus inform others, by your labor, by your prayers, by all the financial assistance you can afford.

We have many unanswered letters, important projects to consider, unlimited reading material to digest, all sorts of problems to work out. But a day, is just so long; there are just so many of us willing to give our time; there is just so much money to go around. Something has to be left undone. We are sorry if it happens to be you we have not answered—it is not intentional.

We have no thought of quitting; we intend to accept what God gives and use our best judgment in making use of His gifts, in whatever form He sends them. Give us a helping hand now when we need one desperately!

FAIR EMPLOYMENT COMMISSION SCHEME

by Franklin Hichborn

For many years prior to 1946, advocates of the "Fair Employment Practice Commission" scheme (FEPC) labored without success, to get such a measure through the Legislature of California. Failing there, in 1946, they brought the issue to statewide vote and were beaten in every county. The State total was 675,697 for FEPC; 1,682,646 against; majority against, 1,006,949. In spite of their overwhelming defeat, the FEPC minority again turned to the Legislature. They got nowhere until 1955, when their bill passed the Assembly. Thus encouraged, they put on a campaign in 1956 to commit candidates for the Legislature to their policy. In my own county, Santa Clara, where FEPC had been defeated by a vote of 18,093 for, to 41,616 against, all but one of the candidates for the Legislature were quoted as favoring FEPC. Unquestionably, such a drive to commit Legislative candidates will be made again. Their bill passed the 1957 Assembly. Again they lost in the Senate.

They then turned to the home politicians. FEPC ordinances were introduced at Los Angeles and San Francisco. At Los Angeles, where by county-wide vote they had been defeated by 294,938 for, to 758,641 against, they lost by only one vote in the governing body. In San Francisco, where they had been defeated by 69,651 for, to 141,956 against, the Supervisors, under pressure, passed an FEPC ordinance. Of that pressure (see San Francisco papers for May 21, '57), Supervisor James J. Sullivan, for example, charged: "One organization of 600 members told me if I would vote for this (FEPC ordinance) they would support me in November. The representative of another organization told me that if I voted against it, he would see to it that I was defeated. If that is the price of public office, it is too much for me."

Any candidate for the Legislature who does not think such "price too much," would not be representative of the vast majority of Californians, nor of the county from which he may be elected.

The pushers for FEPC are quite as persistent in their opposition to the effective McCarran-Walter Immigration Code, to the Bricker Amendment, etc.

COMMUNIST CONSPIRACY

sistently and with ever increasing effrontery advanced the communist cause and subverted the American Constitution. In a recent edict, indeed, this court has virtually repealed the whole concept of law by expressly subordinating it to what Mr. Frankfurter chooses to call "the conscience of society" which can justify any violation of rights guaranteed by law. And who determines what the "conscience of society" authorizes? Why, Mr. Frankfurter and his comrades in the court. The principle, of course, is precisely equivalent to that set forth in slightly different words in the Soviet legal system. The question is, how many of Frankfurter's pupils and disciples are now to be found in the various levels of the federal judiciary?

WHO PROMOTED THE COMMUNIST PERESS?

Equally agonizing, equally imperative is the question how far the conspiracy has penetrated our armed forces. Sen. McCarthy was struck down for raising the question even in the most tentative form. That is, perhaps, the most significant fact of all. But through chinks in the iron curtain of "Military secrecy" gleam occasional incidents that are profoundly alarming. Many of you have probably read the recent novel, The Pentagon Case, by Colonel Victor J. Fox. A friend of mine is a close friend of the author, and I am assured that all military episodes in that story are accounts of what actually happened transposed only enough to protect the author from a charge of having disclosed "classified material." These events, by the way, took place even before a reluctant Senate, driven by what were said to be "irresistible pressures," confirmed the appointment as Assistant Secretary of Defense of the notorious Anna Rosenberg, who was said to have been identified as a communist agent. We need to know what those "irresistible pressures" were and whence they came. We need desperately to know the answers to many questions.

In June, 1949, Senator McCarran sent to Admiral Hillenkoetter, who was then head of our Central Intelligence Agency, an inquiry concerning one hundred new appointees to the so-called "United Nations." Admiral Hillenkoetter replied that a preliminary check of his records showed that 29 of these appointees were officers in the Communist Party, and that 32 others were known members of the Soviet espionage system. Admiral Hillenkoetter was immediately transferred to a desolate outpost in the Pacific. We need urgently to know who transferred him—who has the power to terrorize the loyal officers of our army and navy.

U. S. FOREIGN POLICY FAVORS REDS

Our foreign policy for the past two decades is an almost unbroken record of betrayal and shame. I trust, by the way, that you have not overlooked the latest triumph of what may fairly be called the Washington Moscow Axis.

You will recall that when General George Marshall was sent to China to arrange for the communist occupation of that country, he was able to accomplish his mission by simply cutting off from General Chiang Kai-Chek the supplies of ammunition that he needed for his soldiers' rifles, which were all, of course, of American manufacture. $150,000,000 worth of ammunition on ships that were about to land was simply dumped in the ocean, and, of course, no further shipments were made. Thus Chiang Kai-Chek's men could not use even their rifles, to say nothing of machine guns and artillery, and he had to retreat before the communist invaders, who had been equipped with the huge Japanese stores of weapons and munitions that we had turned over to them in Manchuria.

NO SOCIAL COMFORTS IN A CONCENTRATION CAMP

I have said enough, I think, to suggest how desperate our situation is. Our ancestors were never confronted by a danger so terrible and immediate.

And what is even more important, on the local level in many a community, people are becoming aware of the real purpose behind such things as "metro" districts, regional planning, fluoridation, "mental health," "counseling programmes" in the schools, and many other local activities that serve the communist purpose of persuading the boobs to fasten on themselves the chains of servitude.

Unless I am misled by my observations, there is a new attitude on the part of the communist conspirators, perhaps even a sense of desperate urgency that in a way matches our own. I have the impression—and remember that it is no more than an impression—that the conspirators sense the coming of a change in the temper of the American people so drastic that the conspiracy will be lost unless it can carry out a complete coup d'état in the next two or three years.

If even the few details in the appalling story that I have mentioned tonight were brought to the attention of Americans by responsible and respected citizens of their home community, I am sure that the country would be swept by a wave of indignation such as it has never before experienced.

To produce that indignation is, it seems to me, the task before us, and indeed our only hope of survival. It is one in which all conservative groups can unite their efforts without organizational difficulties, rivalries, or debate over the many minor political questions on which we may differ. This is a fight to preserve our lives, and an open offensive against the whole communist conspiracy is imperative, if we are to survive.

Let every patriot resolve to expose this conspiracy and to make his voice heard in his own community, in his club, in his social circle. Speak out; tell Americans of their dangers.

This may, I know, entail some sacrifice of time, of money, of business advantages, perhaps even of social comforts. Remember that there are no social comforts in concentration camps. But nothing that can happen to you because you speak now can possibly be as bad as what will inevitably happen to you if you remain silent. Our ancestors risked their lives and their honor to create this nation. Is it too much to ask us to risk our lives, if necessary, to recapitulate it from our enemies?
